The role of an Industrial Security Guard

In a role like this, your attention to detail, vigilance and the ability to stay focused are essential to success. You thrive in dynamic environments, stay vigilant to potential risks and are proud to be the first line of defence to keep people, assets and operations safe. Whether you monitor activities, conduct patrols or manage access to the site, your professionalism and strong situational awareness help create a safe and welcoming environment.

As a security guard, you will help with supporting daily operations through access control, site monitoring, patrols and incident response. Rain or shine, you will work inside and outside, taking new challenges every shift while developing a valuable experience in safety, customer service and problem solving. If you like to stay active, work independently and have a significant impact, it is your role.
